SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Saviour Called Himself by Many Titles, but He Was Never Assertive

Text: John 10:1-5, 11-16, 27-30

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

It would be interesting to list and study the various terms and figures in which Jesus spoke of Himself. To the woman of Samaria at Jacob's Well, He announced quite plainly that He was the Messiah whom she and many devout people were expecting. He called Himself "the Saviour," saying that He had come to seek and to save the lost. Similarly, He implied that He was the Master Fisher when He invited His disciples to follow Him and He would make them fishers of men. He spoke of the relationship of the Master who washed the disciples' feet, teaching the lesson of humility and service. Every word and every claim that He made concerning Himself was because of what He represented spiritually in His person and in His teaching. In this Jesus stands in great contrast with so-called leaders in other spheres and areas of life. He Himself brought out this contrast very strongly, speaking of the "lords of the Gentiles" who exercised authority upon them, by reminding the disciples that it must not be so among them and that He was not at all Himself of that spirit. The figure of Jesus as the Good Shepherd emphasizes all this very strongly. The shepherd particularly, under eastern conditions of caring for the flock, was not a dominator but a leader. He ruled the sheep through care and guidance. He called them and they heard his voice. He defended them against enemies and he shepherded them into the fold. He was, as Jesus said, the door of the sheep, standing aside in the doorway and calling the sheep to enter. Jesus was using these words about Himself as the Good Shepherd to those who knew the Twenty-third Psalm, and that Shepherd Psalm must be in the background as we read this portrayal of the Good Shepherd. It would be well to read that Psalm in connection with this lesson, to contrast and compare the Old Testament representation of the Lord as our Shepherd and the teachings of Jesus concerning Himself. Today the world is in the grip of military commanders and captains of industry, and the world needs them in its crisis. In the aftermath when the great ones of this world have done their worst—and their best—humanity is going to need shepherds, wise teachers and helpers who will lead the people back into ways of peace and mutual helpfulness. The Good Shepherd must be more than ever our Lord, our Master, and our Guide.

The mid-week meeting is conducted each Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Beginning this week the pastor will teach from the big chart and the public is welcome to come and ask questions.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Dorcas society meets at the church.

Friday, tonight, at 6:30 o'clock the farewell supper for Pvt. Charles Harmon will be served at the church. Two movie reels will be shown.

BEWARE OF "PRICE-TAG" VITAMINS!

Even shrewd buyers sometimes succumb to the "price-tag" temptation in the purchase of concentrated vitamin products. But vitamins, more than most other drug store items, must be bought "on faith." It isn't the price you pay, but what you get that counts. We feature Abbott Vitamin Products because of their guaranteed high vitamin potency and dependability. So, for full value, bring your vitamin prescriptions here.

Hollywood News

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

The Hollywood property man has rightfully earned the reputation of being a jack-of-all-trades who can perform miracles at a moment's notice and save the day for a movie company. But "props" do, on occasion, fall pretty flat.

The myth of invincibility has been built up around Hollywood's property men for over 20 years and consequently stories of their failures have failed to reach print, thereby denying the public of some of the more amusing stories of movie making.

Such as when Property Man Bob McCrillis came a cropper during filming of "For Whom the Bell Tolls," McCrillis, a real superhero with the props, saw a river turn from bright blue to dirty brown before his eyes and there wasn't anything he could do about it.

What Gives?

"For Whom" is filmed in technicolor and when a river suddenly turns color in the midst of a scene, you've got a right to ask questions. Director Sam Wood was shooting a scene in which Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman were crossing the Stanislaus river in the High Sierras. The water was a beautiful bright blue. They didn't complete the river crossing in one day.

When they returned to complete the scene, the water was a dirty brown because farmers upstream had opened a dam to irrigate their land and silt had colored the once-clear water. McCrillis tore his hair and chewed up his fingernails but nothing happened. They had to wait two weeks for the water to clear.

Got the Bird

Property Man Jack de Golconda was propping a picture being made off San Francisco's waterfront several years ago for a most exciting director. The scene called for a fishing boat to proceed along the waterfront followed by flocks of sea gulls.

de Golconda had no trouble getting the gulls to follow the fishing boat. He was hidden in the back of the boat tossing fish to them.

"Now get the sea gulls to fly away from the boat," screamed the director. "It's important they fly away now!"

Well, the minute de Golconda stopped tossing fish to those sea gulls they got sore. They settled right on the boat in flocks, fighting de Golconda, and above their shrill protestations he heard the wildly screaming director, "Get them to fly away! Get them to fly away!"

Betting is high in Hollywood at the moment that the latest prop man to come a cropper will be one Dick Brandow. Mr. Brandow is now working out the details of his assignment for "Lady in the Dark," the new Ginger Rogers picture. Director Mitchell Leisen has ordered prop man Brandow to get him a pink elephant in a lavender evening dress being made love to by a frog.

"I AIN'T GOING"
Butte, Mont.—The bus driver helped a woman and little girl into the bus.

Several blocks later the woman alighted.

"Aren't you going with your mama?" the driver asked the girl.

"That's not my mama".
"Well, where are you going, then?"

"Oh, I ain't going anywhere. I was just standing there, and you helped me on the bus, so. . ."

RETURN POSTAGE GUARANTEED

Kansas City—James F. Evans told police his 160 homing pigeons, worth $150, had all been stolen.

He didn't seem much worried, though.

The first four had flown home within two hours.

ECONOMY

Estancia, N. M.—Caught without a driver's license, Justice of the Peace E. L. Garvin wrote a complaint against himself.

The state patrolman signed it. The judge found him guilty and fined himself $10—which he paid.

The $2.50 in court costs, though, he paid to himself.

NEWS, NOT SHOES

Kansas City—Henry Arndt, veteran railway engineer, tried to buy shoes.

He got nothing but a surprise. He not only had to have shoe coupons, he learned; he also had to have food coupons pretty soon or he'd stop eating. He got them.

Arndt said he'd been working overtime too much to read news or listen to radio broadcasts.

TAX CONSCIOUS

Valentine, Neb.—National Committeemen James C. Quigley has advanced two reasons for postponement of the Nebraska Democrats' annual $25 a plate dinner from Feb. 22 to April 17:

First, the committee could not get the speakers it wanted, and second—and most important—Democrats can't afford to lay out $25 so close to income tax payment time.

CENTS COME BACK

Chicago—School children here contributed their pennies to a drive to salvage brass, bronze and copper, but the government is returning them, with thanks.

What to do with the copper cents in scrap heaps perplexed school principals until William L. McFetridge, area salvage director, advised: "They aren't to be melted down with the rest of your contributions. There's already a shortage of pennies." He ordered the pennies placed in the school's bank accounts.

TRAINED TO LOOT

London —(AP)—The Germans have an entire army battalion in Russia whose business is not primarily that of fighting but to loot nazi-occupied territory of art treasures and books. Many of its soldiers are said to be art connoisseurs and others with special knowledge.

A London source said three companies of this battalion had systematically stripped the museums and universities of Kiev and Kharlov of all their old masters, pictures and rare books.

Gandhi So Weak He Has Almost Stopped Talking Altogether

Hindu Leader in Tenth Day of Fast; U. S. Intervention Hoped For

New Delhi, Feb. 19—(AP)—With Mohandas K. Gandhi in the tenth day of his fast and reported so much weaker that he had stopped talking almost altogether, Indians gathering here for the annual conference of business, professional and educational leaders expressed hope—but only faintly—that the United States would intervene to obtain his release.

Gandhi is fasting in protest against his detention by the British who arrested him last Aug. 9 and have kept him behind barbed wire in the ornate palace of the Aga Khan at Poona.

While some of the Indians who gathered here for the conference opening today held out hope that the United States would ask the British to relent and release the Hindu ascetic, some, including Chakravarti Rajagopalachari, foremost Hindu politician still out of jail, were persuaded otherwise.

Rajagopalachari said he was convinced that "America has made up its mind" not to interfere in the Indian situation on account of the danger of friction with its principal ally.

Continues Routine
By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN

Poona, Feb. 19—(AP)—Although he has become too weak after 10 days of fasting to read the newspapers or to carry on his usual voluminous correspondence, Mohandas K. Gandhi insists upon continuing his daily routine as nearly as possible.

The Indian leader's day begins when he is wheeled on his bed into the bathroom to be bathed and shaved. Then, after a massage by Dr. D. K. Mehta, Bombay specialist and nature treatment, he is taken back to his bedroom to lead morning prayers from his bed while his followers who are confined with him gather around.

The doctors start arriving in mid-morning, and the consultation of the entire medical staff usually begins around noon and lasts sometimes until late afternoon.

Conversation Forbidden
Gandhi's weight is recorded daily, and he is reported to have lost "several pounds" since he began his announced 21-days fast on Feb. 10.

His bony frame is wrapped as usual in a muslin dhoti. On the pillow rests his white, shaven head. The most noticeable feature is a firm, stubborn mouth topped by a white mustache. Old-fashioned spectacles rest on his prominent nose.

Late afternoon is the visitors' hour. Heart specialists always watch attentively as Gandhi talks with old friends.

On Wednesday, stimulated by news that three members had resigned from the Viceroy's council, he was more cheerful than usual and even cracked several jokes. But yesterday conversation with him was forbidden.

Ordnance Plant Employees Are Planning Party

"Mechanical Department Get-Together" is what C. E. Wheeler, assistant to master mechanics of the Green River ordnance plant, is calling the party he is planning for department employees on Saturday evening, March 6. Three hundred or more guests are expected to attend the event, which is to be in the form of an informal dance and party and buffet supper at the Dixon Elks clubhouse.

Tickets for the party went on sale yesterday, with Mr. Wheeler, his secretary, Miss Mary Stiger; Miss Jane Powers, secretary to R. V. Vonderstrasse; and Robert Straughn, line maintenance mechanic, supervising the sales.

Bill Cooper's high school orchestra will play for dancing from 9 o'clock until 1, or later. Employees from nearly 20 departments, ranging from road and track crews to boiler house, garage, heating plant, laundry, pipe and tin shop, electric shop, and other divisions comprising the mechanical department are invited.

SHEILA O'FLAHERTY IS FEBRUARY BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Hal O'Flaherty of East Walton place, Chicago, who have a summer home at Oregon, are announcing the marriage of their only daughter, Sheila, to George William Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stewart Holmes of Cedar Rapids, Ia., Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church, Chicago.

The O'Flahertys gave a small reception for the couple at the Lake Shore club. Sheila attended New Trier high school and was graduated from Girls' Latin school in Chicago. She was a student at Carleton college in Northfield, Minn., until the end of last semester, and Mr. Holmes was graduated last month from Carleton. He has enlisted in the Army air corps and reports to Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo., today for training.

The bride's father is a member of the news staff of the Chicago Daily News.

MISS DORA BREED GIVES BOOK REVIEW FOR TEACHER'S CLUB

A review of the book, "A Time for Greatness," by Herbert Agart, was presented for members of the Retired Teachers' club Wednesday afternoon by Miss Dora Breed at the Hotel Nachusa. Mrs. Margaret Baird was hostess.

The book, now in its sixth edition, presents a comprehensive review of the civilization, economic, social, commercial and idealistic trends and aspirations of the nations now engaged in war, from their origin to the present time.

"It is incumbent on us and all other liberty-loving nations to re-examine our faith and to review our natural greatness," Miss Breed told her audience. "In our early days, as a nation, the policy of our nation was directed by a small number of men. Fortunately for us, those few were born to greatness."

Today, however, everyone must participate actively, the author points out. "A nation makes a decision when it refuses to decide," he declares. "We must continue to differentiate between the means and the ends of life, thereby making contributions to the moral status of the world," he continues.

"The maintenance of and the increase of our continued quest of the Kingdom of Heaven," Miss Breed stated, "could be used to splendid advantage. We must not mistake the dream for the fulfillment. They who believe that mastery is worth any price will seek to outdo any who try to bargain."

"Delinquency—Its Cause and Prevention," will be the theme for the round table discussion when the club members meet at the home of Miss Edna Burnham, on March 17.

JANET NEWCOMER IS PARTY HOSTESS

A pink and white party table awaited 18 little girls who were invited to the H. D. Newcomer home, 604 East Fellows street, for an afternoon party yesterday, honoring Janet Ruth Newcomer's sixth birthday anniversary. Jumping ropes were favors for the little party-goers, who were entertained with games, until time for the birthday lunch.

TO FLORIDA

Mrs. Orval L. Gearhart, Jr., who has been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Rippinger of Oregon, the past two weeks, left Tuesday for Miami, Fla., to join her husband, who is attending a United States army aviation school there.

LEGION POST AND AUXILIARY PLANS SUPPER, PROGRAM

Members of the American Legion post and auxiliary are planning a scramble supper for 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening in the Legion hall. Afterward, a special program will be presented, commemorating the birthday anniversaries of Washington and Lincoln. A special speaker will be heard, and there will be moving pictures. A magician act, and music. Those attending are asked to bring a dish to share and their own table service.

NACHUSA WOMEN AID RED CROSS

Surprise followed surprise for women of the Nachusa community, who met at the Nachusa church for their weekly stint of making surgical dressings for the Red Cross. At noon, Mrs. Harold Emmert surprised the workers with an unexpected treat of chicken and noodles, and Mrs. Fannie Wolf contributed homemade butterscotch rolls, and in the afternoon, Mrs. Marcus Gonnerman was serving homemade ice cream.

A birthday song was sung for Mrs. John Plantz, who was celebrating an anniversary. More than 650 2x2 dressings, equalling any day's work the volunteers have done, were made.

Twenty-four women have registered, and have maintained a weekly average of 12 workers. There is room for about 10 additional workers, according to an announcement by Mrs. Frances Hockman, chairman.

HELEN SHOEMAKER TO BECOME BRIDE

Mrs. Cecile Shoemaker of 1915 Meadow court, Rockford, formerly of Mount Morris, announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen, to Pfc. Samuel Vecchio, son of the Vincent Vecchios of 724 Linden avenue, Rockford.

The bride-to-be, a former student in the Mount Morris schools, is an inspector for the Chicago ordnance district of the war department. Pfc. Vecchio, who is a graduate of Rockford high school, is stationed with the Army Engineers in Boston, Mass. He was a display man with Montgomery Ward and company before his induction into the army.

MRS. FITCH RETURNS EAST

Mrs. Clarence Fitch left last evening for her home in Newport, N. Y., after a brief visit in Dixon as the guest of Mrs. W. J. Sullivan of 313 North Dixon avenue. On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Sullivan was entertaining neighborhood friends at tea, in courtesy to her house guest.

Alternating at the tea table were Mrs. Robert Bracken, Mrs. James Heyworth, Mrs. John Devine, Mrs. Edward Vaile, Mrs. E. M. Goodsell, and Miss Ruth Carney.

CLASS PARTY
Several members of the Amoma class from the Baptist Sunday school surprised Mrs. Theodore Mason, earlier in the week. The unexpected guests packed baskets for a scramble luncheon and unpacked them at Mrs. Mason's home.

MRS. HOEFER IS SPEAKER FOR PHIDIAN CLUB

Phidian Art club members continued their study of Latin America Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. I. B. Hoefer read a paper on "Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands" before the clubwomen at the home of Mrs. Dement Schuler.

The Galapagos Islands, brown lava hills some 600 miles west of the Ecuadorian mainland, are famous mainly for the giant tortoises for which they are named. Mrs. Hoefer told her listeners. The islands have had their share of romantic escapists, and the stories of these adventures were reviewed.

Ecuador was compared to Switzerland, as being similarly small in size and possessing magnificent scenery. The turbulent years of Spanish rule were described, and the history brought up to date with the statement that more progress has been made in the last 15 years than in the preceding century and a half. The opening of the Panama canal precipitated changes in commercial, engineering and health problems, the speaker pointed out. The temperature in Ecuador varies only 10 degrees in a year, and practically every kind of produce can be grown. Mrs. Hoefer gave vivid descriptions of industries strange to this country, including those centered about the balala wood, cacao, tagua vegetable, ivory, the century plant, and the well-known Panama hat.

The capital city, Quito, with its ghosts of Inca days and preceding eras, is the most westerly of the South American capitals, having almost the same longitude as Washington, D. C.

Dixon residents, Mrs. Hoefer reminded her audience, will find Quito most interesting, as the home of Jack Habecker, son of Dr. and Mrs. I. N. Habecker, is there. Jack, a graduate of Dixon high school and of West Point, is now Major Habecker, and United States military attaché for air in the intelligence service. It was the privilege of the clubwomen to hear excerpts from letters to his parents, describing the jungles, the active volcanoes, and the busy life in which he is engaged.

Souvenirs which Major Habecker had brought home included native weaving and figures carved from balala wood, and the tagua nuts. Major and Mrs. Habecker visited in Dixon last year.

Following the program, tea was served, with Miss Clara Arnington pouring. Mrs. E. H. Prince will entertain the club March 2, when Mrs. Z. W. Moss will read a paper on "Venezuela."

MRS. PETIT IS PARTY HONOREE

Mrs. Albert Petit, Jr., the former Miss Jean Lindberg, was guest of honor at a dessert-bridge given last evening by Miss Evelyn Schmidt at the East Second street apartment of Miss Franc Ingraham. Sixteen friends of the recent bride were included on the guest list.

Bouquets of sweetpeas and freesia trimmed the card tables, where contract hands were dealt. Miss Ethel Jamison, Miss Gertrude Wilhelm and Miss Cornelia Conibear shared the score favors, and there was a bridal gift for the honoree from the hostess.

WALNUT COUPLE WILL OBSERVE FIFTIETH YEAR

Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Wright of Walnut will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday at their home. A family dinner at noon will be followed by an open house reception from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Wright was formerly Miss Louis A. Montgomery and was born Jan. 23, 1873, in Greenville township, Bureau county. She became the bride of Mrs. Wright, who was also born in Greenville township, Sept. 22, 1865, at the home of her parents, the T. D. Montgomerys, on Feb. 21, 1893.

The couple moved from Greenville township to Walnut in 1922, returned to the farm the next year, and lived there until 1926, when they returned to Walnut and purchased a home. They have three children, Elmer N. Wright, Albert N. Wright, and Mrs. Harold Hayden.

PALMYRA SOCIETY HOLDS PICNIC

Members of the Palmyra Aid society gathered in the basement of the Sugar Grove church Wednesday evening for their annual mid-winter picnic. Mrs. Elsie Sheaffer, president of the society, presided during an impromptu program, including:

Musical selection, Mrs. Lila Hart; reading, Mrs. Della Butterbaugh; accordion solo, Wayne Mount; reading, Maud Lawton; quiz question, Beth Buhler; reading, "Public Sale in 1850," Bess Hodges; duet, Elsie Sheaffer and Beth Buhler; music, kitchen band, composed of the society members, Mrs. Sills, Beth Buhler, Elsie Sheaffer, Della Butterbaugh, Mildred Reed, Bess Hodges, and Mildred Grobe, directed by Edna Swarts, and accompanied by Mrs. Hart.

Mrs. Hart also made a short talk, explaining the work being accomplished by Red Cross volunteers.

TOMMY GLATTER REACHES NINE

Tommy Glatter, son of Dr. and Mrs. Z. Glatter, will be a young birthday host this evening, when his mother entertains at supper at the home of his grandparents, the Eugene Fejers of 409 East Fellows street, honoring his ninth anniversary. Small envelopes, containing war stamps, are to be favors at the party table, and additional war stamps are to be prizes in the games.

Circling the supper table will be Jimmy Wadsworth, Erwin Hanson, Richard Joslyn, Gerald Leaf, Tommy Murphy, Albert Newcomer, Benny Roe, and George Tyler. Stevie Haas of Amboy will be unable to attend.

FAMILY HONORS SEAMAN TROTTER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trotter were entertaining Wednesday evening with a premature birthday party for their seaman son, Bill, Seaman, First Class, who returned to San Francisco this morning, after a four-day furlough at home. Bill will be 20 years old on March 12.

Fourteen relatives were included in the family party on Wednesday.

WA-TAN-YANS TO HAVE TEA

The Misses Helen Parker and Alice Meppen will be receiving business and professional women of Wa-Tan-Ye at tea from 4 until 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Meppen home, 216 North Galena avenue. Election of new officers and revealing of "heart sister" identities are to be highlights of the afternoon.

WOOSUNG CLUB MEETS WEDNESDAY

Members of the Woosung Woman's club will hold an all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. George McGrath. A scramble luncheon will be served at noon. "Some famous man born in February" is to be the theme for roll call.

BRIDGE HOSTESS
Mrs. Frank Kreim entertained yesterday for her bridge club of eight. Mrs. John Haines held a guest tally for the games, which will be resumed in two weeks at the home of Mrs. A. H. Lancaster.

VISITS PARENTS
Miss Justine Feely of Chicago will be arriving this evening to spend the week end with her mother, Mrs. L. G. Graham, and Mr. Graham of 618 Ottawa avenue.

BRIDGE-LUNCHEON
Mrs. Byron Countryman was an invited guest, when Miss Myrtle Swartz entertained at luncheon and contract for her bridge club on Wednesday. Mrs. George Banta is to entertain next.

PRACTICAL CLUB
Mrs. C. A. Buchner has invited members of the Practical club to her home, 317 East Everett street, for a picnic luncheon at 1 o'clock Monday.

Budget Brighteners

A new print dress and one in plain colors, costing less than $7, are certainly budget brighteners. The gala print comes in cocoa and white, kelly green and white, and gray and white. The big-buttoned models come in solid sky blue, strawberry pink and citron yellow. They are of a wrinkle-resistant and durable fabric, which was featured at the New York fashion show of a famous mail order house.

Smile Is Now Important Part of Health Routine

By RUTH MILLETT

"Eight hours sleep at night, three good meals a day, an hour's exercise a day—and smile." That's the formula Mount Holyoke students are being asked to follow for the sake of physical fitness.

The last reminder "and smile" is what makes the formula better than most.

There isn't enough smiling in America today.

The clerk who tells you he hasn't got what you want to buy seldom eases the news with a smile.

And the disappointed customer is more likely to look and act disgruntled than to take the news pleasantly.

There is too much swapping of sad stories when friends meet and too little effort made to talk about something that brings smiles.

W. S. C. S. HAS PATRIOTIC TEA

Seventy-five members and guests were received at the patriotic tea given yesterday by the Women's Society of Christian Service, First Methodist church. Members of Circle Two, headed by Mrs. Casper Blimling, composed the committee, with Mrs. Charles Swim and Miss Minette Wagner pouring.

"Peace" was the theme of the afternoon's devotional service, led by Mrs. H. W. Leydig. Mrs. F. L. Blewfield and Mrs. Harold Esby presented a conversational on "The Christian's Responsibility for a Just Peace." Mrs. B. R. Jacobson entertained with a piano solo, "Patriotic Melodies."

FIRST YEAR

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Helfrich of near Grand Detour entertained at dinner Wednesday evening, honoring the first birthday anniversary of their son, Johnnie. Guests included his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Helfrich and son Russell and Raymond, and Betty Ann Pitzer. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Flamm joined the party later.

On Sunday, Johnnie was honored at a dinner given by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rucker, in Rochelle. Attending the second celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Sage and daughter, Judy Ann, and Bert Cote. The little guest of honor was presented with gifts on both occasions.

DINNER HOSTESS
Mrs. H. U. Bardwell entertained a few guests at dinner Thursday evening at her home, 612 East Second street.

IT'S SON FOR W. D. HARTS

Mrs. W. D. Hart of 510 East Fellows street has received word of the birth of a son, yesterday afternoon to her son and daughter-in-law, 1st Lieut. and Mrs. W. D. Hart of Ithaca, N. Y. The baby's mother, the former Ruth McElvey, is with her parents in Ithaca, in the absence of Lieutenant Hart, who sailed for England last July, and is now a staff officer in North Africa.

LUNCHEON HOSTESS
Mrs. Isador Eichler entertained at luncheon and bridge yesterday.

Lee Co. Civilian Defense Officials at Rockford Meet

A. C. Handell of this city, Lee county chief air raid warden, and Oscar Berga of Amboy attended an air raid and blackout demonstration last evening at the Rockford east side high school. Berga is chief regional officer for the ten northwest counties of the state. The demonstration was a complete control center with all its units operating, consisting of the following departments: Commander, auxiliary fire, police, air wardens, medical corps, public works, utilities, communication center and messengers complete with wall boards, and charts, signals, telephones, radio in operation for the safety of the populace.

Those attending were given the assurance that the complete cooperation of every citizen is necessary to assure protection in the event of an enemy attack. In Rockford, the city, township and county have appropriated sums of $5,000 each to be used in the civilian protection program.

SITS UP AND TAKES NOTICE

Lexington, Va., — (AP) — Virginia Military Institute physical education instructors think that small Stuart D. Loughborough, a first-year Cadet from Richmond, Va., ought to get credit for setting a new record of some kind.

When an instructor told a class taking a physical fitness test to "see how many sit-ups you can do," most of the boys had to quit after 20 or 30 sit-ups.

The VMI surgeon finally told Loughborough it was time to stop. Loughborough's record was two hours and 1,371 sit-ups.

A Thought for Today

The lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day.—Isaiah 2:11.

For what are they all in their high conceit,
When man in the bush with God may meet?

—Emerson.

N. M. U. Gun Crews

Some amazing stories have come out of Washington from time to time, but none more astounding than the one reporting that the Maritime Commission is training merchant seamen to serve as members of gun crews.

True, Joseph Curran, pro-Communist head of the seamen's union, had proposed that his men be substituted for Navy crews on the anti-aircraft, anti-submarine guns. But it takes two to make a bargain, and how could one have guessed that the Maritime Commission would have given a second thought to such an idea.

It is not necessary to emphasize the Communist angle to find ample grounds on which to condemn such an experiment. Most merchant seamen are neither Communists nor pro-Communists, though their leadership followed the Moscow line as faithfully when it was pro-Nazi as they do now that it is anti-Nazi.

Suppose for the sake of argument, without conceding, that men whose livelihoods depend entirely upon the whim of pro-Communist leaders can be trusted through thick and thin at such vital posts as the defense guns on merchant vessels.

Why, for the negative reason that they aren't potential enemies, should we substitute them for trained Navy personnel? Why should we put at the guns, where the highest discipline is essential, men who are not subject to the same code that governs Navy men?

Why, when the Maritime Commission is pleading for enough volunteers to man our expanding cargo-transport fleet, should we divert men from that service to do what the Navy has the draft power to provide men to do?

By what logic do we propose to mingle civilian sailors, whose minimum at-sea pay scale starts at $185 a month plus $5,000 free insurance, with Navy sailors whose pay begins at $50 a month and no free insurance.

A submarine attacks a merchant ship. The combined gun crew goes to work—sailors at $167 a day (Navy), sailors at $6.17 a day (merchant marine). The end of a watch arrives. The submarine still is there. Does a timekeeper (merchant marine clerk-typists, $6.83 a day) stand by to log the overtime of his union fellows for time and a half—$1.15 an hour—until either the submarine or the merchant ship shall have been sunk?

CHAPTER XIII

CHET SAXON looked worried a moment longer, then his countenance cleared. "Old Man Channing's a joke," he said. "So long, Logan. Tell Hildy I'll be there, even if the scheme is bughouse. And so long to you, Maloney." He grinned sardonically. "Drop in again sometime."

The moment they were in the Ford, Mahoney delivered himself. "I don't like that guy," he said emphatically.

"Why not?" said Jonah. Mahoney brooded. "Calling me Maloney, I'd like to take a poke at him."

"Well, you passed up a swell chance. But Maloney or Mahoney, it all sounds like much of nothing to me."

"Ow," exclaimed Mahoney as if stung, and he lapsed into injured silence.

Jonah Logan did not know it, but mention of the Tribe Maloney, in anything save the most uncomplimentary terms, was to Mahoney like extolling the virtues of the Soviet Union to Adolf Hitler. In his youth in the wilds of Brooklyn, the tough boy of the neighborhood was one Terence Maloney. Terence Maloney had been a year older than Mahoney and, therefore, ineligible for a sock in the puss. Realizing this, Terence Maloney had put in the golden hours shying clods and brickbats at Mahoney and otherwise, by acts of violence, making the early Mahoney existence miserable. As a consequence, Mahoney had conceived an abiding hatred for anything even remotely connected with Maloney's.

"Personally," said Jonah now, "Saxon struck me as being a bit on the—well, sophisticated side for a girl like Hildy."

"I wouldn't know about that," Mahoney said. "But I'd sure like to get even with him."

"What for? He didn't do anything to you."

"He was ribbin' me," said Mahoney aggrievedly.

"Thin-skinned, these Celts," remarked Jonah and drove on, serenely unaware that inside the brachycephalic head of Mr. Mahoney an idea was being born, slowly and painfully, as were all Mahoney ideas.

Late that afternoon Jonah kept his tryst with Hildy at the Taj Mahal. He entered the Wildover ghosted from bush to bush, and arrived safely at the rendezvous. Hildy was on deck. But she seemed listless.

"Hiya, pal," said Jonah, in sprightly fashion. "I've seen your boy friend and it's all set. The jer—I mean, Mr. Saxon—will make a perfect three-point landing in these preserves come Saturday night."

"Oh," said Hildy, and her tone was preoccupied. "Thanks, Jonah." Jonah blinked. He had expected a touch more enthusiasm.

"This Saxon," he said, going in to detail, "was a little—well, hesitant at first. But I put the case strongly."

A girl in love, informed that her swain had hesitated, might have been expected to prick up her ears. Hildy's ears never even twitched.

"Oh, well, that's all right then," she said.

"Hildy," said Jonah, puzzled, "I sense, in your attitude, an undercurrent of distraction."

She was silent a moment. "I guess you must," she said at last. "We've had trouble here today, Jonah. And now the most terrible thing is about to happen. At sundown tonight, unless we get a miracle, Uncle Cal is going to commit suicide."

"Uncle Cal? You mean the goofy little bird with the Henry Morgenthau touch?"

"Yes. He's going to cut his throat. The last time I saw him he was on his way upstairs to hone his razor."

"But, good Lord," Jonah exclaimed, "what's brought this on?"

"It's that horse of his," Hildy said. "Bucephalus. We had a little serious. One of the summerhouses burned down, that's all. But it did create quite a lot of confusion. And, during the excitement, Bucephalus completely disappeared."

"FORWARD, Mahoney," said Jonah Logan.

Mahoney, laden with photographic impedimenta, practically fell out of the Ford. "Gee, Chief, have I got to climb that tree with all this stuff again?"

"Silence! Stop whining! You climb no trees, Mahoney. We enter like Nero, through a breach in the wall."

Mr. Logan spoke lightly and with joie de vivre. Actually he felt anything but light. Once before at Wildover, he had compared himself to Sidney Carton. And now, about to make everything lovely for Hildegarde Channing and Chester Saxon, his mood was Carton-ish in the extreme.

"Well, Chief," said Mahoney, "I'm waitin'."

Jonah strode soberly to the little door in the wall, the key to which he had thoughtfully acquired from Hildy Channing. In another minute they were slipping quietly toward the Taj Mahal.

Worse and More of It

When the oil rationing planners at Washington doped out their formula to rule this winter's supply, they overlooked the possibility that this winter, as far as low temperatures are concerned, might be a honey. Well, they have it now, and the next time they meet to consider heating problems they may take into account the fact that some houses are taller than others.

Strange as it may seem to the Washington statisticians, it takes more oil to heat a room with a high ceiling than to heat one with a low ceiling. The reason for this strange fact is that there are more cubic feet. The same living room with a 10-foot ceiling with an 8-foot ceiling contains a total of 2883 cubic feet. The same living room with a 10-foot ceiling contains 672 more cubic feet of space, all of which has to be heated.

Heating engineers, when consulted about the facilities needed for heating a house, have a formula based on reason. They count the number of windows, and their glass areas; they measure the outside walls, and consult tables about wind velocity, wind direction and temperature records. The type of construction and methods of insulation are taken into consideration. When an engineer gets through with his figures he can tell what size furnace to install, or how many radiators of given size to recommend. His formula based on all the facts bearing on that particular house makes sense.

Average temperatures in this locality have been colder than usual this winter—so much so that even the small unit bonus was not enough to overcome the difference.

General Eisenhower

Henceforth Dwight D. Eisenhower, in charge of military operations in north Africa, will wear the stars of a full general. Information from the war department is that Eisenhower is the twelfth officer in the history of the United States army to attain that rank.

The first in the United States army, as now constituted, was Ulysses S. Grant. His elevation was followed by appointments to the same rank for William T. Sherman and Philip H. Sheridan.

General Pershing attained the highest rank in 1917, being named the same day as Tasker H. Bliss. Generals elevated since then were Peyton C. March, Charles P. Summerall, Douglas MacArthur, Malin Craig, George C. Marshall and John L. Hines.

George Washington was not a general in the United States army when he led the Revolution because it was, properly speaking, the colonial army. In recognition of his services, however, congress created the rank of general and bestowed it upon him March 3, 1799, shortly before his death.

Civilian Economy

The Office of Civilian Supply reports that this year we non-essentials will have 30 per cent more goods and services than would be required to get us by without suffering.

That is fine. None of us will object overmuch if all or any part of that 30 per cent is diverted to war needs. We shall expect, however, that any diversion shall be necessary, and not on the whim of some administrator who may get the idea that a little extra sacrifice is good tonic for the civilian system.

When motorists start detouring marble games it will be spring.

American soldiers fight like devils, say the Japs. Fits right in with what Sherman said war was.

Fair Enough
by
WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—The labor question, which may have become a great bore to many of us in the last few years, is no longer a problem of mere unionism or non-unionism, of protected graft and racketeering and seditious sabotage by the Communists. It is now a question affecting the freedom of every American and anyone who drowns off like a trail-weary trapper in a blizzard, because keeping awake seems to be not worth the labor, may wake up in chains.

We are coming to conscription of labor by means of a law which had no such intention and apparently to mass bankruptcy through taxation and the ultimate dependency of the non-combatant civilian population on the state. Never mind, for the moment, whether civilians conscripted for war work in factories and on the farms shall be compelled to join unions and pay taxes to these irresponsible and, in many cases, horribly corrupt or disloyal sub-governments. Some will have to and some won't. At the moment it appears that those men who refuse to join in closed-shop plants and who are otherwise subject to the military draft will be taken for combat as punishment for their refusal, contrary to the intent of the selective service act and without authority from congress.

But those who may be drafted for war work are not covered by any moratorium on any of their responsibilities. If a man has a mortgage on his home negotiated in time of peace with a prudent eye to his income, his interest must be paid out of his reduced earnings and the local taxes on his place continue. Moreover his last year's income tax must be paid on time out of these reduced earnings plus the new Victory tax and, later in this year, some pay-as-you-go will be imposed on his factory wages for 1943. Combat men have the protection of a moderate moratorium. If they have savings, war bonds or other good assets, they must shower down on the income-tax due dates unless they be overseas and too busy fighting Germans and Japanese. Or, if the conversion of assets into money, for the tax would inflict hardship, meaning a degree of loss to be determined by the treasury, they may postpone payment without interest, until six months after the war.

The conscribed civilian worker, however, has no protection. Assuming that he is squeezed out of a non-deferable job as an office executive in New York, where there is not much war industry, and assigned to a work-or-fight job, in say Toledo, at one-fourth of his accustomed income, he must nevertheless, find money to support his family at home, maintain himself in Toledo, and pay all his taxes, past and current, on time.

And if the Wadsworth-Austin bill becomes the labor-conscription law, superseding the devious resort to the military service act, able-bodied males above the war draft age and up to 65, and with liberal exceptions, women from 18 to 50, may be conscripted for work, still with no provision for any tax moratorium. Congress, of course, may adopt some law forgiving, abating or postponing, without interest, the federal tax liability of such labor conscripts, but there has been no suggestion of that up to now. The treasury has thus far resisted the Ruml plan to set the clock forward one year as to all income taxation. In fact so resolute is the treasury that in some cases individuals may be wiped out this year by combined tax liabilities for two years payable in one which will exceed their total 1943 income. These, of course, would be mostly Tories with live incomes earned currently. Hereditary millionaires, such as Morgenthau and Marshall Field could stand off bankruptcy by skimming their inheritances.

TAKE 2 . FAIR 4 444

If anything is to be done about a tax moratorium for conscript workers, it must be done by congress, not the treasury, but subject, of course, to the urging of the treasury's social and political purposes which always are injected into the programs.

There may be no alternative to labor conscription, but the fact remains that the people have not been allowed to judge for themselves whether there is or not. They are asked to believe it is necessary while the Supreme court and the national government still uphold the mock-work and fake-work systems and to accept conscription from a congress which lacks the courage and honesty to obliterate these union privileges.

Congress just nags the subject, with small bills slightly hedging the powers of the unions here and there, although the close future threatens not only the eight or nine million willing and captive union members but all Americans.

How does it threaten them?

The middle class can be broken by taxation, losing homes, savings and investments, scattered and disorganized. And, after a few years a total population accustomed to labor conscription, but the fact remains that the people have not been allowed to judge for themselves whether there is or not. They are asked to believe it is necessary while the Supreme court and the national government still uphold the mock-work and fake-work systems and to accept conscription from a congress which lacks the courage and honesty to obliterate these union privileges.

"Jonah!" Hildy stamped her foot. "Will you, for cat's sake, stop talking like an insurance adjuster!"

"In view of this," continued Jonah impetuously, "Mr. Calvin Meggs, whose future was bound up in the activities of this horse, served notice that he intended to cut his throat. And it was only by the exercise of the utmost tact that you prevented him from doing so."

"Well, certainly," said Hildy. "We know that. I'll buy a policy, Jonah, if you'll only tell me how it fixes everything for me."

"Hildy," began Jonah, but the voice of Mahoney cut him off. "All set, Chief," sang out Mahoney from within. "This way for the midnight show."

Jonah took Hildy's arm. "Once," he said, "you belittled my invention. But if, after witnessing what you are about to witness, you do not go to your knees and humbly beg my pardon—well, you're not the girl I think you are."

Deaths

Local—

MRS. CATHERINE BELLMAN
Mrs. Catherine Bellman, a resident of Dixon for a number of years, passed away Thursday afternoon at 4:30 at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Harvey in Amboy. She went to Amboy about two weeks ago to visit her sister where she was taken ill. She is survived by three sisters, Miss Bridget Haley and Mrs. Nellie McCollough of Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. James Harvey of Amboy; and one brother, John Hacy of Ireland. Her husband and two sisters preceded her in death. The body will be at the Jones funeral home in this city until 5 o'clock this afternoon when it will be taken to the Harvey home in Amboy. Funeral services will be conducted from St. Patrick's Catholic church in Amboy at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the Rev. Fr. Robert Troy officiating, and interment will be in Oakwood cemetery, this city.

Suburban—

HARRY ACKER

Oregon—Harry Acker, 70, well known Pine Rock township farmer, died Saturday morning following an illness of several months.

Mr. Acker was born May 11, 1872, in Pine Rock township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Acker, pioneer settlers of the township. He had lived all of his life in the township except for 12 years spent in Rochelle and 11 years in North Dakota. He had served several years as road commissioner of Pine Rock township. He was married to Stella Cross in 1897.

Survivors include the widow, three sisters, Mrs. Alda Miles, Huntington Beach, Cal.; Mrs. Edna Downes, Onawa, Iowa, and Mrs. Rollie Rolph, Ashton, and one brother, Walter, living on the homestead in Pine Rock township.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home. The Rev. W. S. Sanford, pastor of the Washington Grove Christian church, officiated and burial was in Flagg Center cemetery.

FRANK A. ANDERSON

Oregon—Frank A. Anderson, well known Pine Rock township resident and farmer died from a heart attack at his home a mile west of Chana at 1:15 Tuesday morning. He had made his home on the farm he owned for the past 48 years.

Mr. Anderson was born in Sweden in June, 1863 and came to the United States when he was 18 years of age. He was married to Miss Emma Johnson May 5, 1888.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Esther Silvius, Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Mabel Reichenbach, Oregon, and two sons, George and Edwin F. both residing in Pine Rock township.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Farrell funeral home in Oregon, in charge of Rev. Paul E. Turk, pastor of the Oregon Methodist church, and interment was made in Washington Grove cemetery.

Mr. Anderson, who had reached the age of 79 years was a highly respected resident of this community. Scrupulously honest and honorable in all things, one whose home meant much to him, industrious in the extreme, he made and left a large circle of friends. Coming to this country from a native land early in life, through close adaption to work and thrift he was very successful in his chosen work of farming.

A resident of Pine Rock township for forty-eight years, he was always counted as one of the substantial citizens of that section.

MRS. CHARLOTTE HUBBELL

Rockford, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Charlotte Hubbell, 54, died at St. Anthony's hospital here at 8:00 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held at the Long-Klontz funeral home, 429 Park avenue, at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the body will be taken to Prairie Rest cemetery, Amboy, for burial services at the grave.

Mrs. Hubbell, who was formerly Charlotte Sherman, was a resident of Amboy before moving to Rockford six years ago. She is survived by her husband, Earl; a sister, Mrs. George Palmer of Oregon; a half brother, John Sherman of Rockford.

CALLS DOCTOR FIRST TIME

Central S. C.—(AP)—Mrs. J. A. Hunnicutt, 78, regretted calling the doctor about as much as she regretted becoming ill. It was the first time she had ever had medical attention.

ed to discipline and dependency, enforced by favor and threat of combat service under one plan, and fine or imprisonment under the other, will be no fit defenders of the civilian freedom that the fighting men left in their cares.

Voluntary service has not had an honest trial. Strikes, malinger, the slowdown and the fake-work system have been maintained as a political tribute to the professional unioneer, and in the presence of this notorious work-waste, the people are threatened with compulsion and its consequences.

THE GREMLINS

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in part or whole strictly prohibited.)

Washington.—A sub-division of the farm bloc known as "the house agricultural appropriations sub-committee" has turned down the Wickard $100,000,000 subsidy program—the idea of dipping into the treasury for this amount now and more later to pay farmers more than their vegetables can bring in the ceiling market, and then selling the vegetables to the consumers at a government loss.

The true significance of the action was belocued by a loud rhetorical controversy as to whether a subsidy is a subsidy or a "bonus" or merely an "incentive payment", and there has been some cheering around the country on the theory that the congress has again repelled radicalism. The cheering may have been somewhat premature.

The real question involved in the scrap was how high farm prices should go. The farm bloc apparently believed Wickard's program would not go high enough. They expect to get theirs later, in another way.

When all this quibbling and farm prospects are sifted, it is clear that before Roosevelt will be able to free the world of fear, he is going to have to free the farmers from fear of prices, and fear of want of help, equipment, repair parts and gasoline.

Both Wickard and congress are putting around on these four fears of the farmer, but as usual, with the accent heavily on prices.

That they may have the accent in the wrong place is becoming daily more obvious in the accumulating evidence. Typical of all plain farmer's mail is a public letter from dirt farmer Louis Bromfield, the author, who points out that inestimable thousands of acres of soybeans, corn, apples and even other products, lie rotting in the fields today from last year's crop—not because of price, but because of lack of help, which will be accentuated further this year by depreciation of farm machinery and lack of gasoline.

Bromfield says he found many a good farmer facing his uncertainties today with this thought:

"I and my family are all right. We will eat. When the city people have not enough to eat, maybe Washington will do something about the situation."

The advertising given the situation makes it certain Washington will do something before that, but the question still is whether it will be the right thing, or whether it will just be another price increase or subsidy payment.

No matter how high the evidence from the farmer grows, the farm politicians, like others here, cannot seem to get away from the notion that to cure any deficiencies out in the country, all they have to do is to push a price button up or down.

Yet it is plain that if the farm bloc boosts lettuce to a dollar a leaf, it will not increase the lettuce crop unless the farmer gets help, equipment and gasoline — and in case he does get these things we can produce his food without an inordinately high, inflationary price.

One ray of hope is the slight weakening of the Army in its stand against releasing any men

Funerals

WILLIAM GIBLIN

The funeral of William Giblin of Harmon, who was instantly killed Wednesday night when his automobile was struck by two Northwestern trains at Sterling, will be held at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Flannen's Catholic church in Harmon, with burial in Holy Cross cemetery there.

Mr. Giblin, who was born Nov. 2, 1895 in LaSalle county, is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Catherine Mercer, Chillicothe, Ill., Mrs. W. L. McNally and Mrs. A. J. Tiernan, both of Des Moines, Ia., and Mrs. Mary George of Rock Falls, and two brothers, Emmett and Andrew Giblin, both of Harmon.

Sterling police said Giblin apparently became confused and drove into an alley near the C. & N. W. tracks and then turned to cross the tracks. He went over a set of switch tracks and then started to drive down the right-of-way of the main westbound tracks. A westbound mail train rounded a curve 100 yards away and was unable to stop before striking the Giblin car. The auto was tossed onto the eastbound tracks, where the wreckage was further demolished by a fast freight train.

Giblin was thrown out of the car when it was struck the first time.

for the farm front. It may release battalions but no individuals, to do farm work. Yet in England, the same U. S. Army is allowing its jeeps to participate in plowing the fields for spring planting.

Already the radicals (even the CIO) are seeing their chance in this situation. They are publicly promoting a more or less communal farm program, which would create state or county quasi-soviets to pool help, machinery and gas. Everyone knows most of the nation's farmers already do this in a neighborhood and democratic manner, and this democratic way can be expanded without creating a communal organization in the Red way.

Unless someone gives the farmers some certainty as to the future, the battle on the farm front will be lost this spring in planting.

Heralded arrival of the Richelieu and other French warships at American ports was a convincing tribute to the administration's policy of expediency in playing ball with Darlan in Tunisia. Just a day or so before Darlan was shot, he made the French governor of Dakar come through with the agreement releasing these ships to us. They will go into active combat service on our side.

But there are more French warships in the harbor of Alexandria, which the French commander there has been keeping beyond reach of British fingers. He has threatened to scuttle them at the first British move.

The British are getting a little annoyed at this situation, and developments toward getting better cooperation out of that Vichy commander may be expected.

Lodges and Patriotic Orders

By S. M. HINDS

U. S. W. V.—On Tuesday evening at 6:30, members and auxiliary of William E. Baldwin Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, assembled in G. A. R. hall where a scramble supper was served, after which a patriotic program was held honoring two famous Americans who were born this month. The event also marked the 45th anniversary of the battleship Maine's treacherous destruction in the harbor of Havana, Cuba, Feb. 15th, 1898.

The births of Washington and Lincoln, and destruction of the Maine, were each important factors in shaping the history and destiny of the nation.

The guest speaker, Professor L. W. Miller, former County Superintendent of Schools, held the strict attention of his listeners as he portrayed some of the principal historical events of Lee country from colonial days to the present time. The speaker emphasized the fact that both Washington and Lincoln were born under extreme handicap, and yet reached the highest pinnacle of honor within the power of their countrymen to bestow. Washington's handicap was one of wealth and aristocracy, while Lincoln's handicap was the extremely opposite, that of poverty, which had its origin in a lowly cabin in the hills of Kentucky, where the great emancipator first saw the light of day.

In closing, the speaker paid tribute to the men of the Spanish-American war, many of whom fought the well trained forces of the king of Spain and half-civilized, jungle tribesmen. They fought and campaigned in strange tropical lands in uniforms unfitted for such service. They battle diseases for which there was then no known cure and they had next to no medical and surgical care. There were no lines of communication as we know them today, and the soldiers were fed rotten meat supplied by profiteering packers whose ethics were measured by the almighty dollar. They suffered from hellish fevers and diarrhea and dysentery which left survivors with internal scars that they carry to their graves. The actual outlay in money in the prosecution of the war was trivial in comparison to the financial costs of other wars in our history, but the price we paid in health and happiness was terrific, he said. More than three hundred thousand veterans of that war have assembled in the bivouac of the dead.

Commander Helmick of Baldwin Camp spoke on a subject of which very little is generally known. Some ignorant scoffers have referred to the war as a "skirmish" or a "picnic" at government expense, but if they could have heard Commander Helmick's talk they would think differently if not too prejudiced. As a matter of fact, the Spanish war period, April 21, 1898 to July 4, 1902 was composed of three phases and lasted longer than the Civil war or World war No. 1.

A. L. Auxiliary—The meeting which the Lee County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary was to have held in Amboy has been postponed until June, because of transportation problems. The council is composed of all auxiliary units in the county.

B. P. O. Elks—A regular meeting of Dixon lodge, No. 779, B. P. O. Elks will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the club house. Attorney Edward Jones will give a talk at the conclusion of the regular business meeting.

Dukes Should Win From Township at Sterling Tonight

Sharpshooters Hope to Keep Conference Record Unblemished

By BILL EVANS
Tonight the Dixon Dukes will venture to Sterling in search of their eighth straight conference victory, in as many starts, against the Sterling Township high school team.

Dixon will be rated the heavy favorite in tonight's varsity contest due to the conference standings. Sterling has a record of two victories against four defeats in the conference standings while Dixon boasts a clean slate with eight victories.

It is very probable that the Dixon Dukes will go through the conference schedule without a defeat this season and equal the mark set by the Dixon High School varsity team in 1936.

Dixon will be at full strength in tonight's varsity game, while Sterling's regular forward, Dan Troy, probably will not be able to play tonight. Troy, who recently re-entered the Sterling Township high school in his first game this year hurt his wrist.

Probable Lineups
The following lineups will probably take the floor in the varsity contest which will follow the Frosh-Soph game:

Sterling	Pos.	Dixon
Brown	Leeper
Abney	Knack
Duhm	Loftus
Hunsberger	Hubbard
Wells	Howard

Preliminary Game

In the first game tonight, the Dixon Sophomores will play the Sterling Sophomores in a game which should provide thrills throughout the game. The young Dukes will be out to throttle the Sterling team and revenge their 19 to 14 defeat by Sterling in a previous match this season.

The following lineups will take the floor in the Sophomore tilt.

Sterling	Pos.	Dixon
Johnson	Utz
Liesman	Rizner
Reid	Broman
Wolf	Meinke
Linton	Acker

Irish Cagers Will Bury Coach, Tackle Great Lakes Quint

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 19—(AP)—Six members of Notre Dame's basketball squad will serve as pallbearers for their late coach, George E. (Doc) Keogan at his funeral tomorrow and then will leave for Chicago for a game with Great Lakes tomorrow night.

Notre Dame authorities had planned to cancel the game, scheduled as a part of a double-header at the Chicago Stadium, but Mrs. Ruby Keogan, widow of the veteran Irish coach who died of a heart attack Wednesday night, requested that the contest be played.

Ed (Moore) Krause, one of the greatest players developed by Keogan in his 20 years as Notre Dame's cage coach and now an assistant coach, will be in charge of the squad for the Great Lakes game.

The Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame, will sing the funeral mass in Sacred Heart church on the campus and the Rev. Wendell Corcoran, C. S. C., pastor of St. Joseph's church of South Bend will give the sermon. Keogan will be buried in Highland cemetery, near the grave of another Notre Dame coach—Knut Rockne—who signed Keogan to his first contract here in 1923.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)
Boston—Freddie Cabral, 149, Cambridge, outpointed Joe DiMartino, 152, Fort Slocum, N. Y. (8).

Fall River, Mass.—Jimmy Fuller, 143, New York, outpointed Gene Margarida, 140, Fall River (8).

A Milwaukee street transportation utility sweeps the streets regularly to pick up tacks, nails, and other metal objects damaging to rubber tires.

Maj. Griffith Asks What's Wrong in Continuing Sports

Chicago, Feb. 19—(AP)—Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, said today a group of college presidents had advised Army officials to take a stand against participation in intercollegiate athletics.

He said the action was taken by a few university heads who "don't like college athletics," and that it was followed up by last week's announcement by Army officials that university men trained for the Army in colleges would not have time to compete in intercollegiate athletics.

"These college presidents present arguments against intercollegiate sport which are unclear," Major Griffith observed. "For instance, they refer to a transportation problem. Recently two of our Big Ten teams played a basketball game on a night when the temperature stood at zero. There were 14,000 spectators there and most of them walked to the field house."

"What is there wrong with these people going out to watch two teams of boys perform? What is there wrong in these boys playing?"

The commissioner recalled that Brig. Gen. Joe N. Dalton, assistant chief of staff for personnel, services of supply, said "we are not sending these men there (to universities) to participate in big time college athletics."

"Is this what is referred to when certain college presidents urge abandonment of intercollegiate athletics?" the commissioner asked.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 19—(AP)—Georgetown's Hugh Short will go into the Army next week without getting a chance to show his record-breaking 1943 form before his schoolmates. The only Hoyas who have seen him in action are Coach Hap Harrel and the members of the mile relay team. The Big Ten colleges likely will schedule football games against service teams next fall on the same basis as last year—if there are any service teams. When Pitt's basketball team wound up its home season against Carnegie the other night, Doc Carlson rushed out on the floor to kiss the senior players when he put in the subs, and had a technical foul called against him.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR—Bob Foote, Pasadena, Calif., Star-News: "We can't make up our minds whether or not we are justified in doing a little playing while our boys overseas are in prospect of dying. Probably the answer will be that typically Puritan one: we will do what we want in the matter of holding sports, but we won't really enjoy them. The old blue-nose conscience making its customary compromise."

SERVICE DEPT.—Iron Mike Mikulak, the old Oregon footballer turned M. P., is provost marshal at Casablanca. Seaman Charley Beetham of the Iowa pre-flight school isn't trying to alibi his defeats in the indoor track meets, but he admits that staying on his feet nine hours a day in a steam room looking after injured athletes and would-be athletes takes some of the spring out of his legs. Corp. Dewey Fragetta, who used to handle fighters in large quantities, now is handling kitchen equipment at Fort Monmouth, N. J. At the same post Pvt. Alex Noreika reported for the boxing team. Coach Tommy Yaroza asked if he had any previous boxing experience and Alex replied belligerently, "nope, but I'm from Brooklyn."

A KINDRED SOUL—Sylvester Goedde, 6-foot 9-inch freshman basketball player who recently left Georgetown after signing a Toledo baseball contract, used to do all right in court practice until about 5 p. m. Then he'd ask to be excused. After turning him down several times, Coach Elmer Ripley noticed the kid wasn't working in the late sessions so Elmer asked why. Goedde had just one complaint. Basketball was fun, but he'd have to quit the squad if he couldn't get near a radio in time to hear "superman."

CLEANING THE CUFF—The Villanova-Seton Hall basketball game, listed to wind up the Setonians' season March 2, has been advanced a day because six of Coach Honey Russell's eight remaining players are due to go into the Army on the second. Dick Rondeau, captain and coach of the Dartmouth hockey team, is rated such a good prospect that the Boston Bruins have him on their negotiation list even though Uncle Sam has first call. When Joe Laws, Ben Starett and Dick Weisgerber of the Green Bay Packers returned to their jobs at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., shipyard they took Tiny Croft, 330-pound tackle along—just in case a crane might break down—maybe they should attack a motor and launch him.

Badgers-Whiz Ki's Game in Spotlight Tomorrow Evening

Wisconsin Has Chance to Toss Illinois Out of Title Contest

Chicago, Feb. 19—(AP)—It's bad news to Illinois that Johnny Kotz is about due to reach his scoring peak Saturday night.

After overcoming his fate of being the marked man early in the season, the 1942 Big Ten basketball scoring champion gradually is reverting to his old habit of pumping in those hard-to-guard one-handed push shots and augmenting them by his usual calm consistency with free throws.

Kotz, working with Bob Sullivan, gives Wisconsin one of the best sharpshooting combinations in the conference. Both players donated 19 points Monday as the Badgers handed Indiana its first defeat of the season.

Kotz could find no better time to reach his point-making peak—in Wisconsin's opinion naturally—than at Champaign Saturday. The Badgers failed to beat the Illini in two games last year when Kotz was setting a scoring record, and couldn't do it early this season, losing 52-40.

Washington

By Peter Edson
Telegraph Special Service

Seven thousand four hundred reports of sabotage have been received by the Federal Bureau of Investigation between Jan. 1, 1940, and Feb. 1, 1943—an average of a little less than 10 cases a day.

Of these 7400 reported cases, investigation disclosed that 558 cases were definitely acts of sabotage. The remaining 6842 cases were false alarms or natural industrial accidents.

Of the 558 cases of actual sabotage, 424 convictions had been obtained up to Feb. 1. The remaining 134 cases are awaiting trial or in the process of being tried.

Only two of the cases of actual sabotage were committed by acts of sympathizers. All the others have American citizen-principals who committed their acts of sabotage under strange influences of revenge or carelessness, or were the results of natural causes or industrial accidents.

These amazing figures from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in the first round-up of suspected sabotage activities of the war, reveal in startling fashion, the contrast between conditions today and in the first World War.

No Organized Effort
The fact stands out that there has been no organized, enemy-directed sabotage in the United States since the war began.

Germany has made one major attempt to land saboteurs in the United States with sufficient funds and equipment to organize a program of destruction in American centers of war production. That effort met with failure, but it is obvious that the nazis would not have gone to all the trouble they did to land trouble-makers on U. S. shores from submarines if there had been any active organized groups in the country on whom they could depend.

In none of the sabotage cases thus far reported and investigated has there been major damage to any war plant or to any munitions, planes, ships, tanks, guns. In most of the cases, the sabotage has been detected before damage has been done. The whole story of anti-sabotage work in this war, in fact, has been a record of sabotage prevention. It makes much less spectacular reading this way, but countless lives have thus been spared and many thousands of dollars have been saved.

And so, while the United States has escaped major damage from sabotage in the first 14 months of the war, it has done so only at the price of eternal vigilance. The record is a vindication and a tribute to the methods of J. Edgar Hoover and his G-men. Long before 1939, Hoover was one of the first to preach the doctrine that "We must be constantly on the alert."

Tons Of Prevention

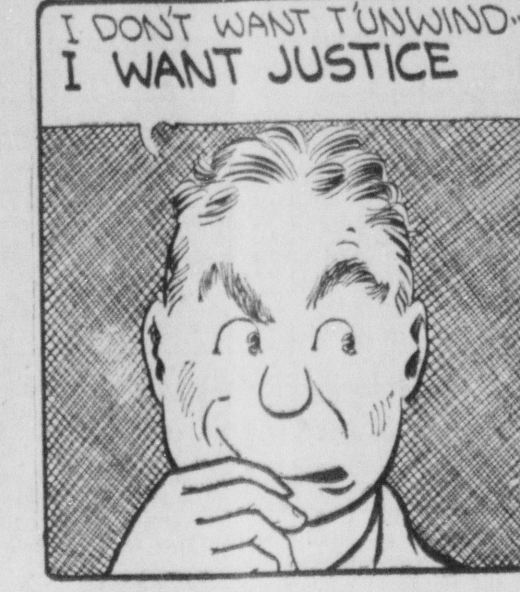

Prior to the war, the FBI conducted a survey of some 2350 war plants, checking up with factory guards and local police to make sure that ample security measures were being taken—that fences were adequate, pass systems tight enough to keep out unwanted visitors, the records of employees above suspicion, the guards themselves of the right caliber, and that simple precautions against fires and explosions were enforced. There are fires and accidents even in peacetime, but in wartime the safety-first measures are all the more important. Continuance of the good anti-sabotage record for the rest of the war is possible only by maintaining this vigilance.

The two acts of sabotage involving axis sympathizers were the Eitzel case in Baltimore in which a German national did succeed in damaging some 37 Martin bombers before he was caught, and an attempted arson case at the Kaiser shipyards in Richmond, Calif. The Eitzel case attracted considerable attention, but the west coast case received little publicity. It happened at 1:45 a. m. last July 28, when an alert guard saw a man trying to set fire to a pile of lumber with ignited oakum, or ship's caulking. Detected, the saboteur pulled a gun, which the guard knocked out of his hand. The saboteur picked up a stick and the guard ran for help. When he got back, the culprit had escaped. Identified by photos, the saboteur proved to be one Heinrich Roedel, a German alien who had entered the United States illegally in 1936. He had been employed at the shipyard for a short time, but was dismissed because of his alien status, and was a subject for deportation. A taxi driver also identified Roedel as the man he had driven from the shipyards to Oakland the night of the fight. Among Roedel's effects were found certificates which identified him as having been a nautical storm trooper in 1933. He got 30 years.

A Victory Garden in New Orleans parking lot, only 5 by 12 feet in area, has produced 30 pounds of tomatoes, 100 ears of corn, 150 radishes, 75 heads of cabbage and 35 heads of lettuce.

India produced about one percent of the world's rubber before the war, but now accounts for 9 percent of natural rubber available to the United Nations.

Rationing News

The following information released at the offices of the Lee County War Price and Rationing Board is important in some measure to every resident of Lee county:

Renewal blanks for holders of B, C and non-highway ration books for gasoline have been mailed out from the offices and those receiving these are urged to return the blanks, completely filled out, at the earliest convenience. The above mentioned class of gasoline ration books expire March 1. In some instances persons coming under this classification have obtained blanks from a service station and another through the mail from the rationing board. In any instance, they are requested to fill out but one blank at once and mail it back to the central office at Dixon.

In preparing for the issuance of the No. 2 ration book, the local rationing offices were overtaxed in preparing forms and supplies which were called for by supervisors of the several townships of the county to be distributed to the schools where registration will take place next week. Several thousand mimeographed forms were prepared, the paper being furnished for this purpose. Chairman O. H. Martin today expressed the appreciation of the board to employees of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co., the high school and County Superintendent of Schools John Torrens for their cooperation in preparing this vast volume of instructional information.

Violators of motor vehicle laws are apt to be denied gasoline ration books when the present issue expires, it was reported at the offices of the rationing board today. Those who have been arrested and fined for drunken driving, speeding or reckless driving come within the scope of those who will be without gasoline soon. A survey of police and justice court records is being made at the present time to secure this information for the rationing board.

Several service men at home on furlough have applied at the ration board office for special gasoline permits which would entitle them to operate cars in calling on friends either in the city or vicinity. These applications have been denied under a ruling which provides:

"Service men home on furlough and desiring to use automobiles will not be given special gasoline permits. Boards are instructed not to issue special ration books of gasoline and such service men will use the regulation ration book issued to the members of his family".

Two amendments were announced by the fuel rationing division of the local board today. Amendment No. 35, effective Feb. 10, provides that period 1 coupons are void for all purposes on and after Feb. 20, and coupons for all other periods are void for all purposes on and after 30 days from the expiration date of their validity for consumers. This means that boards may not issue exchange certificates, inventory coupons, or other evidence for such coupons to dealers or suppliers after the above dates.

Amendment No. 35 also provides that a dealer or supplier need not attach coupons to Form OPA, R-120, stamp or coupon sheet, when he transfers them to another dealer or supplier unless his supplier requires it. However, coupons, other evidences, and delivery receipts must be summarized on form OPA, R-1117. Both forms must be used when coupons, other evidences, and delivery receipts are turned in at boards for exchange certificates.

RAILROAD REGISTRATION

Paw Paw, Feb. 19—Registration for War Book No. 2 will be held at the Paw Paw school building from 1 to 4 o'clock afternoons and from 7 to 9 evenings of next week, with the board requesting that as far as is possible citizens of school district 149 register in the following alphabetical order: Monday—afternoon, A through D; evening, E through G. Tuesday—afternoon, H through I; evening, M through P. Wednesday — afternoon, Q through S; evening, T through G. If citizens find it impossible to register according to the above schedule they may do so at any time. School will not be dismissed through the three afternoons.

JUDGE'S RECOMMENDATION

Santa Monica, Calif., Feb. 19—(AP)—Defense-plant drunks will sober up in the Army, if Police Judge Samuel J. Crawford has his way.

The judge said he will recommend to draft boards the induction of all defense plant inebriates cited before him.

He's tired of hangover absenteeism, he said; "our men on the fighting fronts are not taking time off for alcoholic sprees".

Income Taxes

Facts and Instructions Concerning Levy Pre-paid by Treasury

COMPUTATION OF TAX

For persons filing on Simplified Return Form 1040A, the computation of tax is shown on the reverse of the form and all that is necessary is to take the figure shown in the appropriate exemption column, opposite the amount of income block, and enter the amount on the face of the return.

For persons filing on return Form 1040, the computation of tax is shown in items 20 through 33. The tax is levied in two parts, the normal tax and the surtax. The normal tax is a flat 6 per cent of the "normal tax net income"; the surtax is at variable rates, depending upon the amount of "surtax net income." The sum of the two taxes (item 30) less credits for income tax paid at source (item 31) and income tax paid to a foreign country or United States possession (item 32) constitutes the balance of tax (item 33) or the net amount of tax payable.

The difference between "surtax net income" and "normal tax net income" consists in (a) the amount of interest received on government obligations which is exempt from normal tax but subject to surtax (item 5a) and the amount of the earned income credit (item 25). Surtax net income is the net income shown in item 19, less the personal exemption (item 21) and the credit for dependents (item 22) allowable; the balance subject to normal tax is the surtax net income less the amount of exempt interest shown in item 5a, and less the earned income credit.

The following example will show how to compute the normal tax and surtax on a net income of $3,500, all of which represents earned income, the taxpayer being single and without dependents:

Net income $3,500
Less personal exemption .. 500

Balance (surtax net income) 3,000
Earned income credit 350

Net income subject to normal tax 2,650

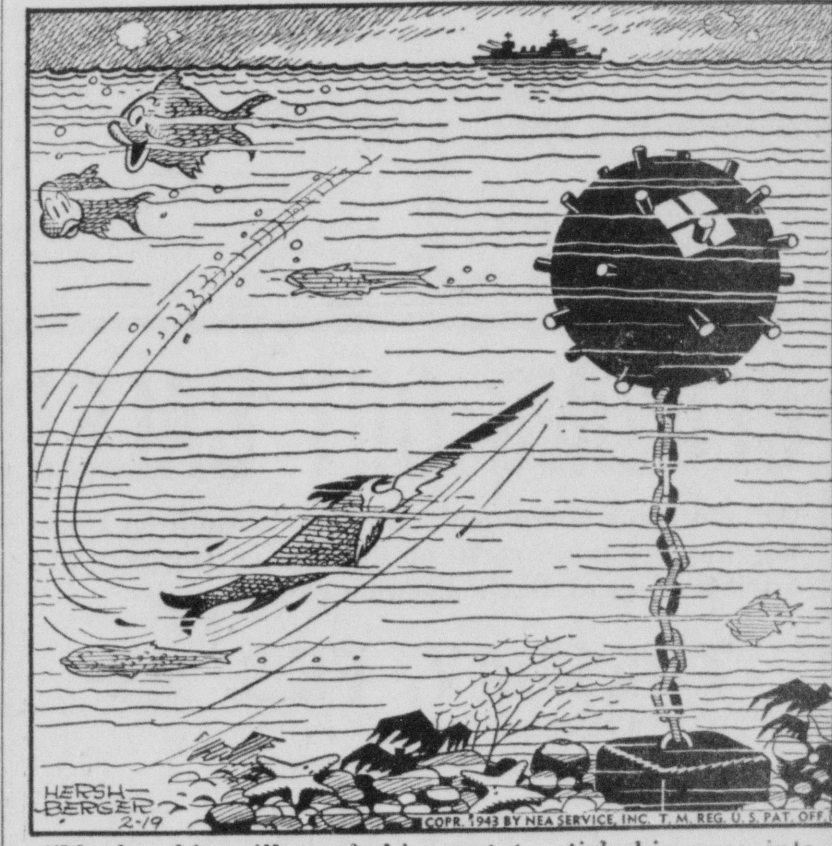

Surtax upon the surtax net income:
On the first $2,000 260
On the balance above $2,000, ($1,650) at 16 per cent 160

Normal tax (6 per cent of $2,650) 159

Total normal tax and surtax 579

Taxpayers are urged to read carefully all the instructions accompanying the income tax forms before preparing their returns. If they need any help they can get it without cost by consulting the nearest collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or internal revenue agent in charge.

Uniform Aid Raid Warning Signal Is Urged by Council

Is Designed to Permit Earlier Blackouts and Mobilization

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Adoption of a uniform air raid warning signal has been recommended for Illinois communities and is expected to be put in operation in the near future, Capt. William F. Waugh, chairman of the civil protection division, Illinois State Council of Defense, said today.

The new regulations, he said, provide for uniform air raid signals designed to permit earlier blackout and mobilization of civilian defense units, greater civilian protection, and a minimum of time loss and interference with essential war production and transportation. The principal features of the new regulations, which have already been adopted on the east coast following war department approval, are:

1. A preliminary audible public "blue" warning signal is prescribed consisting of a steady blast lasting approximately two minutes on air raid horns, sirens or whistles. This signal warns "probability of enemy air raid—get ready."

2. An audible public "red" air raid signal is prescribed consisting of a series of short blasts on air raid horns or whistles or the warbling notes of the siren. This signal means "enemy planes are practically overhead."

3. A "blue" signal will always follow each "red" signal after immediate danger has passed. It returns the community to the conditions prescribed for the "blue" signal and the community is thus prepared to return to the "red" without delay if enemy raiders return.

4. No audible "All-Clear" signal is prescribed. The "All-Clear" will be indicated by turning on street lights which have been off during the "blue," if it is a night raid, by public radio announcements and telephone or other communications with warden posts and local police.

Rabies Quarantine Declared in Peoria

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 19.—(AP)—An increase in rabies has resulted in the quarantine of all Peoria dogs.

During February, 23 Peorians were bitten by dogs who had, or were suspected of having, rabies, Dr. Sumner Miller, city health commissioner reported. There were 18 cases in January and 11 in December, said Miller, adding that no deaths resulted.

The quarantine was imposed yesterday by Director Howard Leonard of the state department of agriculture, who said it meant that dogs must be kept "within an enclosure from which escape is impossible or restrained by a leash composed of metal or other indestructible materials." Police will enforce the restriction.

TOWN GOES ON SCRAP PILE
Washington —(AP)—The salvage drive in Texas took a spurt when the whole town of Wiergate, Newton county, was sold for scrap. The Office of War Information says the purchaser, a Pine Bluff salvage concern, paid $100,000 for the abandoned lumber town. Machinery will be salvaged and the 300 houses dismantled and sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hough, of Seward, were dinner guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson at Kable Inn on Thursday. Mr. Hough is a brother of Mrs. Davidson and they had not seen each other for 13 years. Needless to say, it was a very happy occasion for both.

DEMANDS YOUNG BANDS

London —(AP)—"Too old at forty" is writ large over the entrance to most of Britain's dance bands. Youth is in demand, report dance circles, because people who listen and dance to the music are generally allergic to grey-haired orchestras. As a result, many young London dance band players, earning an average of $28 weekly before the war, are now getting up to $250 for a twenty-four-hour week.

"They are not all experienced players," said a Musicians' Union official, "but they are young and good-looking. Some have been 'invalided out of the forces, others are medically unfit to serve."
